Where They Live Japan

KIRSTY MUNRO, PHOTOGRAPHS BY PAUL BARBERA

Step inside a world rarely seen. Where They Live Japan opens the doors to private homes offering an intimate portrait of how creative people live.

Featuring artists, architects, designers and makers, it invites readers into the spaces where ideas are formed, routines unfold and creativity takes shape in everyday life.

From compact Tokyo apartments overflowing with personal details, to Kyoto wooden townhouses shaped by centuries-old traditions; from inventive live/work studios to characterful family homes on the edges of the city, each home reveals the breadth of contemporary Japanese domestic life. Not styled for show, these environments are lived in, thoughtful and deeply personal.

Through candid photography and insightful profiles, each chapter tells a story of how the home is shaped by constraint and habit, and how everyday rituals become design solutions. More than a book about interiors, this is a portrait of contemporary Japanese life, seen through the spaces people inhabit.

Don Quixote

A GRAPHIC NOVEL ADAPTATION

MIGUEL DE CERVANTES, ILLUSTRATED BY PAUL BRIZZI AND GAËTAN BRIZZI

Following the positive response to Dante's Inferno comes a new graphic novel adaptation of the literary classic Don Quixote by legendary Disney animator siblings Paul and Gaëtan Brizzi.

More than 400 years later, Don Quixote is as popular as ever, having been adapted to nearly every medium, and continuously referenced in pop culture. While there have been many graphic novel adaptations of Cervantes's classic (including on the SelfMadeHero list in 2013), Paul and Gaëtan Brizzi bring their historically influenced Disney animator style and prestige to this adaptation, elevating it into an instant graphic novel classic.

Perfect for fans of art history, classic literature, and animation, this Brizzi brothers' adaptation of Don Quixote leaps off the page and brings the man of La Mancha to life for a new generation of readers.

David Hockney by David Hockney

DAVID HOCKNEY, EDITED BY NIKOS STANGOS

A special, fiftieth-anniversary edition of David Hockney's witty, candid, and revealing account of his life and work.

David Hockney by David Hockney was first published in 1976 and grew out of twenty-five hours of recorded conversation with the artist. A carefully crafted, collaborative memoir, this special full-colour edition marks the fiftieth anniversary of the book's first publication.

The book's fascination lies not only in the fact that the text is entirely Hockney's own—so that his life story is given full clarity—but also that it reproduces more than 400 of his paintings, graphic work, and drawings. The story, presented more or less chronologically, is informative and humorous, full of descriptions of his work, anecdotes about himself, other artists, and friends, his thoughts about art, and his ambiguous relationship with abstract and other styles of art. It is the story not so much of someone who has achieved something, but of an artist who is ceaselessly striving to improve his craft and imaginatively to portray the world around him.

Bacon Disfigured

EDITED BY BEN WARE

A collection of essays that opens up new connections between Francis Bacon's art and the ideas of key thinkers.

In this groundbreaking collection of essays, some of today's leading philosophers and psychoanalytic theorists go to work on Bacon. They do to the artist what the artist does to his own figures: they disfigure and distort him, twisting and turning him into something new and previously unseen. This strategy of disfiguration blasts Bacon out of his traditional contexts, opening up new connections between his art and the ideas of key thinkers, including Kant, Marx, Nietzsche, Baudelaire, Freud, Canguilhem, Genet, Lacan, Adorno and Althusser. The results are revelatory, allowing us to transform our understanding not only of Bacon but also of modernism itself.

Francis Bacon is undoubtedly one of the most important artists of the twentieth century. In his paintings, Bacon radically disfigures his subjects, making them all but unrecognizable. This is no mere stylistic quirk, but the expression of a deeply held aesthetic vision.

Cézanne Remembered

A MEMOIR WITH CONVERSATIONS

JOACHIM GASQUET, TRANSLATED BY CHRISTOPHER PEMBERTON, FOREWORD BY JOHN REWALD, INTRODUCTION BY RICHARD SHIFF

A vivid portrait of Paul Cézanne drawn from the author's personal conversations with the artist, Joachim Gasquet's classic offers a rare window into the mind of this modernist master.

Joachim Gasquet's personal and largely first-hand study of the greatest and most profound modern painter has been known to Cézanne experts and art historians for some time. An invaluable and often-cited source of information on the artist's aspirations and ideas, the first half of the book draws on personal family connections, as well as testimony from those who knew the artist at various stages of his life, to present a rich account of the Cézanne's life, career and inner struggles.

The second half is couched in the form of conversations between Gasquet and Cézanne, in the course of which Cézanne struggles to formulate his basic artistic philosophy. What emerges is a poignant and unforgettable portrait of a tortured, obsessed genius who seemed doomed never to satisfy his own ideals.

Photography has not simply changed how we capture the world: it has changed how we view it, structuring our very ways of seeing. This ambitious publication, timed to coincide with the 200th anniversary of the first-ever photograph, brings together photographs from leading image-makers - including Zanele Muholi, Andreas Gursky, Man Ray, Sebastião Salgado, Hannah Höch, Barbara Kruger and Edward Steichen - alongside unexpected selections.

Leaving the City Behind

COUNTRY HOUSE ARCHITECTURE & DESIGN

LISA BAKER

Discovering the elegance of contemporary country house architecture - where tradition meets modern design in stunning rural settings.

Country houses have long served as places of retreat, offering withdrawal, deceleration, and contemplation away from the fast pace of urban life. Set within forests, fields, or coastal landscapes, they provide refuge while reconnecting with the rhythms of nature. Today, architects are reimagining rural living for the 21st century, creating a symbiosis of comfort, environmental awareness, and aesthetic restraint.

New houses as well as sensitively converted barns and farm buildings demonstrate how contemporary architecture can blend harmoniously with the landscape. Flexible interiors, often accommodating home offices or multi-generational households, respond to changing lifestyles. Together, the featured projects showcase the diversity of contemporary rural architecture while preserving the identity of the countryside.

Arts & Architecture 1955-1959

EDITED BY TASCHEN

From the end of World War II until the mid-1960s, exciting things were happening in American architecture. Emerging talents were focusing on innovative projects that integrated at once modern design and low-cost materials. The trend was most notably embodied in the famous Case Study House Program, a blueprint for modern habitation championed by the era's leading American journal, Arts & Architecture.

The complete facsimile of the ambitious and groundbreaking Arts & Architecture was published by TASCHEN in 2008 as a limited edition. This new curation—directed and produced by Benedikt Taschen—brings together the magazine's highlights from 1955 to 1959, with a special focus on mid-century American architecture and California modernists such as Pierre Koenig, Craig Ellwood, and Richard Neutra.

A celebration of a politically, socially and culturally engaged publication, this special selection is also a testimony to one of the most unique and influential eras in the history of American architecture.

Under the Olive Moon

10 PALESTINIAN FABLES

MARIA ISABEL SÁNCHEZ VEGARA AND NOUR FERWANA, ILLUSTRATED BY RAAHAT KADUJI

From the desk of the Maria Isabel Sánchez Vegara, creator of the best-selling Little People, Big Dreams series, comes a beautifully illustrated collection of Palestinian fables, which she has co-authored with Nour Ferwana, a mum from Gaza.

When Maria Isabel began exchanging messages with Nour, she learned how she kept her daughters' spirits alive at bedtime from her tent in Gaza. "My name is Nour, and the stories in this book are the ones that my husband Majed and I tell to our little girls - Malak and Joud - from our tent in Gaza. Some are old fables that have been told for many years. Others I have gathered and saved for them. They are gifts passed from one generation to the next, like treasures carried in our pockets - treasures that can turn our little tent into a palace, a garden, or a ship. We share with you because every child, everywhere, deserves to grow up with these stories."

This remarkable book overflows with joy, crossing time and place to bring love and hope to readers of all ages.

The Deep Dark Ocean

HELEN SCALES, ILLUSTRATED BY ANA MIMINOSHVILI

The deep sea is the biggest, most mysterious part of our living planet. To survive down there, animals get up to all kinds of strange things and look completely different from anything else on Earth.

Written by award-winning marine biologist and author Dr. Helen Scales, and printed with a fifth silver pantone throughout, The Deep Dark Ocean comprehensively visualizes the deep ocean environment and brings its beautiful and unbelievable quirks to life.

Readers find themselves immersed in the velvety dark landscapes of deep-sea plains, trenches, and mountain ranges, and discover ghostly octopuses, sea pigs, dancing crabs, coral, and sponge forests, Elvis worms, and Ninja lanternsharks, among other remarkable creatures.
