Diary of an English Garden

PAUL BANGAY, PHOTOGRAPHY BY EVA NEMETH

From one of Australia's most revered landscape designers comes a deeply personal and evocative new book: a diary of discovery and creation in the heart of the English countryside.

The book offers an informed outsider's view of English gardening - deeply knowledgeable, reverential and refreshingly honest about the challenges of working with unfamiliar land and climate. In the lineage of classic English garden diaries: in the spirit of Vita Sackville-West and other great garden chroniclers, the book blends memoir, observation and horticultural insight, appealing to readers who value reflective, literary nature writing.

A highly collectable, design-led publishing object: conceived as a luxurious, tactile book, the design features original linocut floral artworks for the cover and section openers, card inserts with gold foil marking the seasons, a faux-linen bound cover and gilded sprayed edges.

A History of the Sky in 300 Infographics

PIERRE LÉNA AND CHRISTIAN GRATALOU

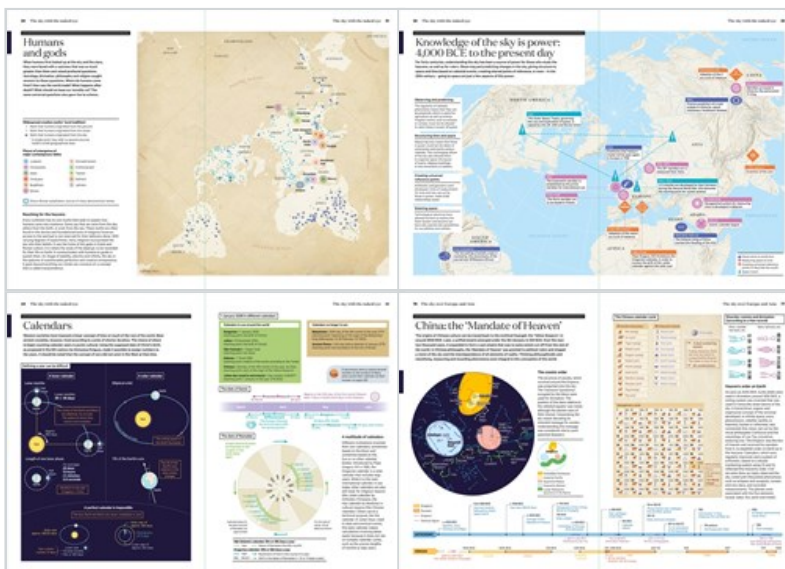

Trace the history of mankind's perception of the sky and outer space in 300 easy-to-follow maps and cartographics, from the dawn of humanity to the present day.

Long before astronomy became a formal discipline, observations of the Sun, Moon, planets and stars shaped calendars, navigation and systems of belief across many cultures. A History of the Sky traces this global history, examining how societies developed the concepts and methods that allowed humanity to interpret the cosmos.

As with its bestselling companion, A History of the World in 500 Maps, the book uses infographics and maps to show how people throughout history have understood the universe and to consider what the future of space exploration might hold. Designed for keen enthusiasts and curious newcomers alike, A History of the Sky reconnects readers with the ancient fascination of looking up. It reveals how today's science rests on centuries of observation, argument and a thirst for adventure - and addresses a central question: How do we know what we know about the universe?

Frida Kahlo, 500-Piece Jigsaw

GREAT ART, ONE PIECE AT A TIME

FRIDA KAHLO

A new 500-piece jigsaw puzzle based on one of Frida Kahlo's self-portraits, a gift dedicated to Dr. Leo Eloesser, her most trusted medical advisor and a lifelong friend.

From 1930 to 1931, Frida Kahlo lived in San Francisco, where she was treated by the pioneering doctor Leo Eloesser for her chronic medical problems. After being injured in a serious bus accident as a young woman, she would experience persistent medical complications and back pain and Dr. Eloesser became both her most trusted medical advisor and lifelong friend. She dedicated this portrait to her dear "doctorcito."

The artwork holds a striking story - Kahlo's pain from her health issues, the importance of religious and cultural symbolism to her, and her love for her friend. Take in all the beautiful details as you put together this stunning 500-piece jigsaw puzzle.

TATTOO

HENK SCHIFFMACHER'S PRIVATE COLLECTION

EDITED BY TASCHEN

One part history book, one part art book, and one part fascinating memoir, this book is an overview of more than two centuries of tattoo history intermixed with an intimate look at the lives of tattoo artists, and the personal struggles and triumphs, occupational hazards, and artistic courage that have defined so much of this history.

For the last forty years, Henk Schiffmacher has poured his heart and soul into his collection, amassing tattoo drawings, designs, photographs, and artifacts from around the world. The book features many never-before-seen highlights from this collection and includes lithographs, etchings, tattooing instruments, paintings, photographs, posters, shop signs, original drawings, among them extremely rare vintage flash sheets from major players in early Western tattooing.

The book also features a dozen original illustrations by Schiffmacher in his inimitable style, as well as a personal introduction describing Schiffmacher's own journey as both an artist and a collector that has shaped his view of the art's journey from the underground to the mainstream.

Cowards Don't Go To Heaven

THE SCRIBBLINGS OF A LOST CREATIVE SOUL WHO FOUND PARADISE

EUGENE CHEONG

From Eugene Cheong — Asia's most awarded advertising creative and one of D&AD 50 best copywriters — comes a profanity-laced, beautifully chaotic manifesto that refuses to be housebroken. Cowards Don't Go To Heaven is a creative survival manual built on eight habits: Courage, Idealism, Curiosity, Playfulness, Free-spiritedness, Intuition, Authenticity, and Persistence. Four decades of insights collide with Scripture, philosophy, and brutal honesty. Think Winston Churchill meets Bill Hicks — with 71 illustrations punctuating the mayhem.
